Introduction	xxv
PART I: CONCEPTS AND APPROACHES TO DEPTH INTERVIEWING	1
Overview	1
1 Interview 'Facts' as Evidence to Support Inferences to Eventual Theorization/Representation Models	2
Data-collection (up to and Including the Interview) and Data-interpretation (from Interview to Researcher Product)	2
Common-sense Hypothetico-inductivist Model	2
Anti-common-sense Hypothetico-deductivist Model	2
Inductivist and Deductivist 'Moments' in Doing Research	2
Some Features of Depth Interviewing as Designed Practice	3
The Interview is a Research Interview	3
The Interview is a Type of Conversational Face-to-face Interaction	4
It has to be Particularly Well-prepared (Designed) to Allow         it to be Semi-Structured	5
It is an Interview 'in Depth'	5
The 'Hard and only Facts' of Interview Interaction, and Inferences	6
Old Wu: Knowledge of Discourse, Referents, Subjectivity	6
Inference = Assumptions + Evidence-handling Argument         against Counter-arguments	12
Final Proposed Re/presentation Product/purpose Determines Appropriate Design of Data-generation/processing	14
